Find Bodies of 4 Missionaries Slain in Ecuador

Mutilation by Indians Makes Identity Impossible

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—The bodies of four massacred American missionaries have been found in the "green hell" jungles of eastern Ecuador, and there is only a "remote chance" that a fifth survived a savage Indian attack, it was reported today.

An unconfirmed radio report from the jungle said at least one of the slain men had been decapitated—recalling the Aca Indians' grisly practice of shrinking the heads of their victims.

Only one of the murdered missionaries has been positively identified so far—Nathaniel Saint, of Fullerton, Calif., the only member of the party who was wearing khaki clothing. Mutilation made it impossible to identify the other three bodies.

The men who flew into the jungle with Saint Sunday were T. Edward McCully Jr., of Wauwatosa, Wis.; Roger Youdarin of Billings, Mont.; Peter Fleming of Seattle, and James Elliott of Portland, Ore.

A U. S. Air Force helicopter piloted by Maj. Malcolm L. Nurnberg sighted the four bodies Thursday in shallow water along the banks of the rain-swollen Curacay River.

Abraham Vanderpoint, an official of the Protestant mission that sent the five men to convert the Aucas, reported by radio from the jungle that "there is a remote chance the fifth missionary is still alive, but hope is fading with the passage of time."

Two men sighted early Thursday near the scene of the massacre and tentatively identified as survivors turned out later to be friendly Jibaro Indians who guided searchers to the missionaries' radio set.

Meanwhile, examination of the reports prepared by the missionaries before their last, fatal trip into the jungle indicated they probably were slain by Aucas they had not met on previous trips.

The five men had established friendly relations with the Indians who lived near the river beach. They had won the Indians' confidence to such an extent that a few of the bolder savages came close enough to shake hands, and one even went for a short hop in the mission plane.

"The Indian gave yells of happiness while in the air," Saint said in his report of the day's activities.

A week ago today, the missionaries set up a prefabricated hut on the river bank without drawing any protest from the Indians.

On Sunday disaster struck, and the last report radioed by Saint indicated it was the result of the arrival of strangers on the scene. "Here come some Indians we have not met before," he said. "Everything OK. Will contact you again at 4:30 p. m."

Two Children Suffocate in Fire At Carterville

CARTERVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A corner's jury ruled Thursday night that two small children suffocated in the fire that destroyed their home at Carterville.

Nineteen-month-old Bobby Davis and his sister, Ladonna, 7 months old, died in the fire that swept the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis.

The two victims were taking naps in a bedroom when the fire broke out. Mrs. Davis was in the yard with her other son at the time.

Acting Williamson County Coroner Adolph Fluck said firemen believe the blaze started around a chimney fire in the attic. It is believed the fire smoldered for a time before spreading through the five-room frame house.

Service Pins Awarded Gas Company Employees; Lewis Honored at Chicago

Service pins were awarded to three employees of the Southeastern Illinois Gas company at a dinner meeting Thursday night by district manager H. C. Lewis of Harrisburg.

Included in the district supervised by Mr. Lewis are the properties at Harrisburg, Eldorado, Metropolis, Illinois and the Tennessee Gas company at Union City, Tenn.

H. D. Bowden, Union City manager, received a 25-year service pin; Don Viers, manager of the Eldorado plant, received a 15-year pin; and Ed Neal, manager at Metropolis, also was awarded a 15-year pin.

Mr. Lewis, who has been with the gas company since its organization in 1930, received a 25-year pin at a luncheon held in Chicago Thursday, Jan. 5.

The luncheon in Mr. Lewis' honor was held at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and the 25-year pin was presented by Arthur K. Lee, president of the United Cities Utilities Company.

Last night's meeting was held at the 45 Cafe in Harrisburg with 19 employees and guests of the company present.

Prior to presenting the service pins, Mr. Lewis briefly reviewed the history of the gas company in this area. He stated the company was started in 1930 and after weathering the depression years had made a slow, but steady progress.

In addition to those receiving service pins, other employees with extended service were introduced. They included Amos Jones of Harrisburg, 13 years; Mrs. Venita Woods of Eldorado, 12 years; Amory Slaton, 11 years, and Fred Schwartz, 10 years, both of Metropolis; W. T. Fox, 11 years, G. P. McLeary, 10 years, and Mrs. Eva Bell Cox, 10 years, all of Union City, Tenn.; and H. M. Kirchhoff, 11 years, Vandalia. Vandalia was formerly in Mr. Lewis' district.

Ruth Anne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Davis, 21 West Park, was recently chosen Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow at the Harrisburg Township high school.

Ruth Anne received the distinctive Homemaker of Tomorrow pin, a badge of honor symbolizing the fact that "Home is Where the Heart Is," and the high school has received a copy of "The Betty Crocker Good and Easy Cook Book."

On December 6, 1955, 250,000 senior high school girls in schools across the nation took an examination—a test of "Homemaking Knowledge and Attitudes." Then the tests were graded by Science Research Associates, an educational testing agency.

The examination of each school Homemaker of Tomorrow is now being graded with the examination papers of all the other school winners in the state of Illinois and a State Homemaker of Tomorrow will soon be announced. The state winner will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship and an expense-paid educational tour of the nation's capital, Mount Vernon, Va. Her school will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Finally, on April 12, all of the State Homemakers will be guests of Betty Crocker at the American Table Banquet in Philadelphia. On this night the name of the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced. She will receive a $5,000 college scholarship.

How to Spend School Farm Income Up To Voters in Gallatin Gold Hill Township

In Gold Hill township, Gallatin county, there are 400 acres of farm land belonging to the schools in the district. There is an annual income of between $4,000 and $5,000 from the land.

On Jan. 24 voters of the township will go to the polls to determine where this income will be used.

In discussing the coming election, Horace Brown, Gallatin county superintendent of schools, reviewed the situation.

He pointed out that in 1785 a federal ordinance provided for one section of land (640 acres) in each township to be granted to school districts for maintenance of public schools.

In most instances the districts have sold their acreage, using the proceeds from the sale for school purposes.

Ike Meets with Top Advisers on Atoms-for-Peace

President Seeks New Life for Bogged-Down Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today summoned five top advisers to find a way to breathe life into his bogged-down atoms-for-peace program.

Although Mr. Eisenhower unveiled two years ago his dramatic plan to put the atom to peaceful use for all men, ground so far has not been broken for even the first atomic reactor envisioned under the program.

The President called these officials to confer on the problem: Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and Dillon Anderson, the President's special adviser on national security matters.

Mr. Eisenhower announced his atoms-for-peace plan in an historic address before the United Nations Dec. 8, 1953. He urged then that an international atomic energy agency be created and that the major atomic powers contribute fissionable material to an atomic bank run by the agency.

The stockpile would be used for all kinds of peaceful purposes, but especially for providing "abundant electrical energy in the power-starved areas of the world."

Despite favorable reception of the idea, no agency has been set up yet because of Soviet stalling and other problems. The United States already has gone ahead with a program of its own to help friendly nations build research reactors and train nuclear scientists.

Agreements have been signed with 19 nations and five others are pending.

But although the first of these bi-lateral agreements was signed more than eight months ago, no work has yet started on construction of a reactor.

U. S. to Resume Nuclear Tests at Eniwetok with Record H-Bomb, A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States this spring will set off the greatest number of experimental H-bombs and A-bombs ever tested at its Eniwetok Proving Ground in the Pacific.

This was disclosed today after the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department officials confirmed that nuclear tests will be resumed at the multi-million-dollar test establishment in the Marshall Islands.

In the last Eniwetok test series two years ago a record total of five "devices" were exploded. Deliverable heavyweight versions have since gone into the U. S. atomic arsenal. This year, a highly qualified source said, "there will be more than five shots."

Though no date was officially announced for the start of the new series, a congressional source said they are scheduled to start on or before May 1. They are expected to include:

1. Air drops of "middleweight H-bombs" specifically constructed to destroy enemy airfields. This would be the first time American H-bombs were actually dropped from an airplane. Past U. S. hydrogen tests have been ground shots. The latest Soviet test H-bomb, exploded Nov. 22, apparently was delivered on target by heavy bomber.

2. Experimental firing of a new atomic weapon against enemy H-bombers. An earlier version with a similar mission was tested at a high altitude in Nevada last year. The perfected weapon may be a warhead for anti-aircraft guided missiles such as the new Nike-B. Or it may be an airborne atomic warhead, the fighter-interceptor's answer to invading bomber fleets.

The official announcement was skimpy. In view of the lack of effective international atomic controls, it said, this country will keep on building up its strength "for purposes of peace."

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said in an accompanying statement that the tests will "involve weapons generally smaller in yield than those tested" in March-April-May, 1954.

This was unofficially interpreted as a concession to foreign agitation for a curb on tests which add to the world's burden of atomic radiation.

The article, written and copyrighted by William Bradford Huie, pictured Milam as having fired the shot that killed Till. The article said Milam and Bryant originally had intended only to whip him and "score some sense into him" after the 14-year-old Negro bragged he had "been with white girls before" and asked Bryant's wife Carolyn for a date.

Diggs, following customary House procedure, got unanimous consent of the House Thursday to speak for a minute and to revise and extend his remarks. He said he was submitting the article for the record and that it "in my opinion confirms what was made abundantly clear last year—that there was a tremendous miscarriage of justice in the infamous case of Emmett Till."

"The case itself had become obscured by obvious efforts to defy any criticism of Mississippi racial custom. Nothing more graphically illustrates the immediate need for corrective legislation by the Congress of the United States," Diggs said.

"Negroes must be guaranteed the right to vote without interference, intimidation, or unwarranted restrictions so they may qualify to serve on juries and exercise influence in the election of fair minded public officials."

Till, 14-year-old Chicago Negro, "wolf whistled" at Carolyn Bryant and allegedly asked her for a date in a small grocer in Money, Miss., last Aug. 24. Seven days later a body identified as Till's was found in the Tallahatchie River, trussed, weighted, and with a bullet in the head.

Mrs. Bryant's husband, Roy, 24, and his half-brother, Milam, 36, were tried and acquitted on charges of Till's murder. The two men insisted they had taken Till away from his great uncle's home merely to scare him, and had freed him unharmed.

But in what it described as the first "real story" of the case, Look said flatly that Milam, a 235-pound combat veteran, shot Till with a .45 caliber pistol about being "as good" as white men and having "had white women."

The magazine article appeared. Milam told reporters he had never talked to any representative of Look. He said he plans to "talk to my lawyer" about filing a libel suit against the magazine. No action has been taken yet.

Milam said he knows of no possible source of the information used in the article which quoted him directly throughout.

Judge Arthur Jordan of Greenwood, Miss., said today it still would be possible for Milam and J. W. Bryant, the other man accused of the Till slaying, to be indicted for kidnap in Le Flore County at Greenwood.

"But no grand jury is going to indict on the basis of a magazine article," Jordan said.

The judge added, however, that it "might carry some weight" if William Bradford Huie, author of the magazine article giving purported details of the Till killing, would come to Mississippi voluntarily and tell what evidence if any he has.

Goes Before Grand Jury to Tell of Robbery

Six Suspects are Arrested; Two Hunted; One Dead

BOSTON (AP)—A meek-looking mobster with revenge in his heart went before a grand jury today to squeal on his one-time pals.

Presumably he will tell the jurors all he knows about the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup.

Informers on the 11-man Halloween informer on the 11-man Halloween masked gang that in 20 minutes staged the world's biggest cash holdup Jan. 17, 1950.

The baldish O'Keefe, puny and pale, apparently felt safe from underworld reprisal.

The FBI Thursday arrested six members of the alleged gang. Two others eluded the agents and still were at large. Two, including O'Keefe, were in jail on other charges and one had died—from natural causes.

The Star Witness

With the arrests, the FBI announced solution of the bizarre holdup only five days before it might have become a "perfect crime."

The 49-year-old O'Keefe was Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne's star witness before the grand jury. Byrne first entered the jury room to outline his case for indictment of the gang. O'Keefe testified later.

O'Keefe, authorities said, agreed to "sing" after a falling out with the rest of the gang, perhaps over division of the Brink's money.

O'Keefe, his wrists manacled to his waist, was brought under heavy guard from East Cambridge jail to the Suffolk County courthouse.

He had been lodged at the jail overnight after "telling all" to Byrne.

The grand jury of 19 members, including 3 women, has been hearing cases since Jan. 2. Other cases were to have been presented today but were postponed so the jurors could listen to testimony in the Brink's case.

Grand jury proceedings are secret.

Another witness today was Thomas Lloyd of Braintree, head cashier at Brink's at the time of the holdup.

With information provided by O'Keefe, the FBI Thursday announced solution of the biggest cash holdup in history, five days before it might have become a "perfect crime."

Six suspects were arrested Thursday. Two others, including O'Keefe, already were in jail, two were being hunted and one was dead.

Authorities said O'Keefe apparently had a "falling out" with his pals and decided to turn informer. Byrne said no deal was made with the gangster.

In June, 1954, O'Keefe narrowly escaped a machine gunning by paid killer Elmer (Trigger) Burke, who now is under the death sentence in New York for a barroom slaying in that state.

Police have theorized the at-

O my God take me not away in the midst of my days. — Psalm 102:24.

Douglas to Hold Hearings on Bill in Southern Illinois

WASHINGTON—Senator Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) announced today that he will conduct field hearings throughout southern Illinois as chairman of the Senate Labor subcommittee on his depressed areas bill (S. 2653). The dates on which the hearings will be held will be announced at a later date.

The locations of the hearings will be selected to permit each area to conveniently appear, and will be for the purpose of providing the subcommittee with testimony on the particular problems affecting each locality.

Senator Douglas said "I want to secure complete data on the economic problems of the entire southern Illinois region, in order that the Congress may be fully acquainted with the need for remedial legislation. I introduced the depressed areas bill last year for the purpose of aiding areas where unemployment continues to be a serious problem and I shall continue to do my utmost to secure its passage."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Raiding A Moonshine Still in Virginia Mountains Is No Picnic; 600-Gallon Still Raided Near Roanoke; Alcohol Tax Unit Agents Are Unsung Heroes.

WASHINGTON. — My wife and Harry Truman claim that I never tell the truth. Mr. Truman hasn't been so vocal on this point of late, but my wife still seems to agree with his original point of view, and the other day it's possible that she caught me in an untruth by reason of silence.

She came into the office to hear Miss Carty, my efficient secretary say, "Well, we finally got Mr. Pearson's reservations to Roanoke, Va., but I certainly had a hard time doing it."

"What!" exclaimed Mrs. P. "I've invited a lot of people to dinner tonight! Mr. P. knew this weeks in advance and assured me he would be here."

"Well, maybe I wasn't supposed to tell you," confessed the usually discreet Miss Carty. "But he's going to Virginia to raid a moonshine still."

Mrs. P. was then doubly irate. She figured I was going to be shot.

"I was going to break it to you gently," I tried to explain. "But Mr. Avis of the Alcohol Tax Unit promised me some time ago to let me go on the next big raid and television it. This raid is all set and it won't wait. Besides, I'm insured and you'll be a prosperous and beautiful widow." She was not easily pacified. However, as I left for Roanoke in midafternoon she reminded me: "Don't forget also that you're dining at the British Embassy tomorrow night."

"I'll be back," I said. Little did I realize how tough it would be for me to keep that promise.

PLANNING THE RAID

In Roanoke that evening, in order not to attract attention, I registered at the Ponce De Leon hotel under the name of "A. R. Pearson," which I haven't used for years and which goes back to the name I was christened, "Andrew."

Shortly thereafter we were in a huddle with Col. Tom Bailey, chief enforcement officer for Dwight Avis and the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit; also Walter Elmore, his top agent in southwest Virginia; and Harry Lieberman of the Washington office.

Elmore reported that he had located a big 600-gallon still in an old apple-packing barn in the Blue Ridge Mountains about 15 miles from Roanoke and had just come back from inspecting it.

He had climbed over a small mountain ridge in the dark in order to come up on the still from behind, and found a piece of paper in the door, probably put there by the moonshiners could tell if some prying agent had dropped in to inspect their work.

Mr. Elmore said he had been careful not to disturb the door or make too many tracks in the snow, but had looked through, and with his flashlight could tell that the vats of mash were bubbling and about ready to run.

"They'll have to start working tonight or in the morning," he explained, "or the mash will get too ripe. They probably set their mash early this week and then

READY FOR THE RAID

We split up at the mouth of the ravine, six men together with my cameraman, Bert Spielvogel, and me going up over the mountain ridge to come down on the other side from the rear. The other men were to sneak up a ravine and approach the barn from the front. The raid was timed for 12:30 noon.

It was rough going up the mountainside. And it was cold standing up on the top waiting for the other men to skirt around to the rear. I had been up in Greenland a short time before, where it was 10 degrees below; but the Blue Ridges at 10 degrees above somehow seemed colder.

As we stood and waited for the zero hour I learned something about the work of the revenue agents. I had not realized how much run-running and moonshining still continues despite the end of prohibition.

These agents had been working for hours. Most of them had been up all night. Elmore had climbed that tough mountain ridge three times in 24 hours, twice in the night. Most of them put in a 60-hour week. In truth they are the unsung enforcement heroes of the nation, their diligence saving the taxpayers millions of dollars.

Finally it was 12:15. The men would be up the ravine in another 15 minutes. Elmore and I started down an old apple-orchard trail toward the barn and the moonshiners. We could see the barn but had no idea whether they were inside.

(Ed. Note — Mr. Pearson will continue his story of the raid tomorrow.)

Ford to Spend $200 Million to Produce New Passenger Car

WASHINGTON—The Ford Motor Co. plans to spend 200 million dollars "within the next few years" to put out a new passenger car expected to compete with General Motors' Buick.

Meek Urges Gov't Ad Campaign to Sell Surplus Food

HENRY, Ill. (U.P.) — Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, has urged the federal government to sell farm surpluses by undertaking an advertising campaign.

Meek Thursday recommended a one-million-dollar program which, he said, would turn commodity and meat surpluses "into near scarcity within six months."

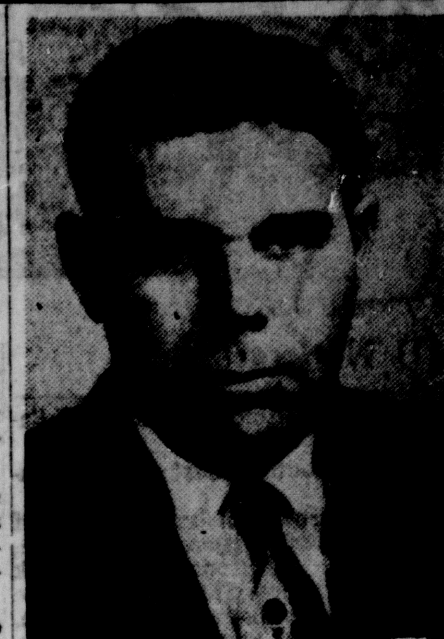

Meek, 1954 Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, revealed his advertising idea before the Marshall-Putnam County Farm Bureau.

He said retailers are trying to sell surpluses, but "give us the dominant, impelling force of a great nationwide selling program" and the surpluses will vanish.

"It's a drastic step," he said. "It's government in business for certain, but it is much more economical than support taxes."

Meek said the advertising appropriation would amount to .002 percent of the five billion dollars reserved for foreign aid.

National Council of Churches Seeks To Instigate Ethics in Business Life

WASHINGTON — The nation's largest church organization is trying to instigate an "ethical revolution" in American business life.

That is the goal of the "Living Right at Work" program which the National Council of Churches has asked its 30 member denominations to push during 1956.

The message the council wants to get across to 35 million Protestant laymen is that Christianity is not a Sunday morning state of mind, but a practical rule of life that should govern the way we act on our Monday-through-Saturday jobs.

It represents a major effort by the churches to translate into higher standards of everyday conduct the new spirit of religious faith reflected in record attendance at worship services.

Laymen Discuss Ethics
Why the emphasis on work as the area of life in which a Christian should demonstrate the sincerity of his convictions?

"America today is a business society," explained a council spokesman. "Often our most meaningful experiences in life occur at work. Also because of its increasing competitive tempo, our business life is one area in which religious principles are in danger of being excluded."

The Rev. Cameron P. Hall, executive director of the council's department on economic life, said: "The problem of business ethics and labor ethics and farm ethics is crucial to the future of Christianity of our country. If our religion only operates on the fringes of our business society one day a week we might as well stop giving lip service to it."

The council has urged member denominations to sponsor both local and statewide conferences of laymen to discuss ethics in their particular occupations. A number of such meetings already have been held. Many more will be held next week, which the council has designated "Church and Economic Life Week."

Some Sample Questions
Here are some of the sample questions that have been posed for discussion:

"In buying goods or hiring labor, should we pay as little as we can or the fair market value?"

"How far should a Christian lawyer go in trying to bring about a reconciliation when his client wants a divorce?"

"Can a public school teacher teach Christian values without violating the principle of separation of church and state?"

"Should a reporter try to resist an assignment to write a salacious story about a sex crime?"

"Does a factory worker have a personal responsibility for unfair or destructive tactics pursued by his union?"

"What should a junior executive do when he finds that his firm is cheating its customers with shabby merchandise?"

The program's motto is: "God is not truly honored on Sunday if he is dishonored on weekdays."

Gen. Gates Drew $7,764 Pay While Facing Charges

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. — The Air Force said today that Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates will have drawn a total of $7,764 in pay and allowances while awaiting disposition of charges which resulted in a reprimand and a $500 fine against him.

The penalty against Gates was assessed earlier this week by Lt. Gen. Charles T. Myers, commander of the Air Training Command, under non-judicial procedures provided in Article 15 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Gates was found guilty by Myers of giving preferential treatment to insurance firms in which he was financially interested while he was commander of Chanute AFB, Ill.

He was recalled from retirement to active duty on Aug. 1, 1955, on full pay and allowances of $1,294 per month, to face the charges. His total pay in retirement was $804 a month.

The Air Training Command, which is headquartered here, said it is expected Gates will be returned to retired status on Jan. 31. His total active duty pay for the six months will amount to $7,764, or $2,940 more than he would have received had he not been recalled.

Deducting the $500 forfeiture would leave him with $2,440 more for the six months than his retired pay would have provided him.

Cross Admits He Was Indiscreet; Denies Job Offer

WASHINGTON — Former Chairman Hugh W. Cross of the Interstate Commerce Commission admitted before he resigned that he was "indiscreet" in calling rail officials about a contract for a close friend, it was revealed today.

But Cross denied the friend had offered him a job.

The former ICC chairman's denial and admission were disclosed in testimony released today by the Senate investigating committee.

Cross and others appeared before the committee last Nov. 15 at a closed-door hearing to answer questions about award of a contract for transferring baggage and passengers between Chicago railroad stations.

He quit 10 days later. He cited reasons of health and his "respect and regard" for the ICC and the Eisenhower administration. He attacked the "baseless charges" against him.

Cross admitted he was "indiscreet" in discussing a bid on the contract with presidents of three railroads involved, but said he brought no pressure to bear on them. He disputed testimony that he had a job offer from the winner of the contract, Chicago trucker John L. Keeshin.

"There never was any promise of reward, and I have never had any interest in any enterprise of Mr. Keeshin, directly or indirectly, and there never was anything between us," he said.

"If I was guilty of indiscretions, I am very sorry, and I cannot believe that my action in any way affected those contracts," he said.

Cross, a former Republican lieutenant governor of Illinois, was named to the ICC in 1949 by former President Truman. The ICC regulates interstate rail traffic, but does not regulate the Chicago inter-station transport business.

The 81-page printed record showed Keeshin testified he was an old personal and political friend of Cross. He said he frequently talked to Cross on the telephone.

Jury to Subpena 3 Legislators In Lobbying Probe

PEORIA — Three state legislators who sponsored a chiropractic bill allegedly backed by a $143,500 lobbying fund will be subpoenaed to appear here Feb. 14.

Peoria County State's Atty. James K. Kellstedt Thursday launched the grand jury investigation of lobbying activities and insurance schemes involving hundreds of thousands of dollars allegedly paid by non-licensed chiropractors in Illinois.

J. Thomas Murphy, Peoria, a lobbyist seeking $200,000 from the non-licensed chiropractors who hired him for the 1955 legislative session, was the first grand jury witness.

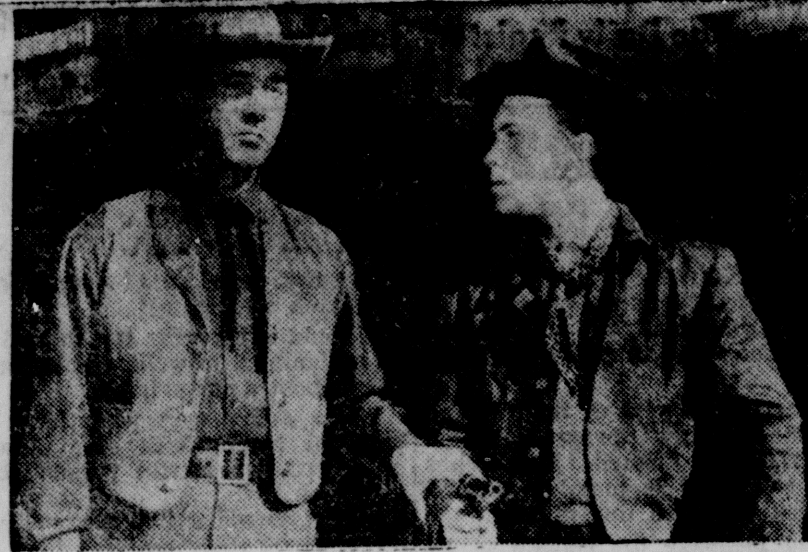

He refused to testify on grounds of possible self incrimination. Two other witnesses, L. W. Ross, Rock Island, president of the Prairie State Chiropractic Assn., and Harry Thomas, association secretary, testified.

Subpoenas Bank Records

Kellstedt said he was issuing subpoenas for Democratic State Reps. Paul Powell, Vienna, Lloyd (Curly) Harris, Granite City, and James D. Carrigan, Peoria. They sponsored the chiropractic bill in the House.

Kellstedt said he also had subpoenaed the records of Central National Bank, Chicago, which had an account with the lobbyists, and the American National Bank, Chicago, which held a huge sum in escrow to be paid the lobbyists if the chiropractic bill was passed.

He said the investigation would "go on intermittently" and he

The best time for a cold shower is some other time.

BY ROBERT CARSE

XXV

The Obis lay even to her keel, glistening in the calm, cerulean water, and when the spars were sent aloft they also glistened in the sun.

Captain Jered Naish leaned against the freshly sanded and painted quarter rail and gazed up with keen pleasure at Kaul on the main topgallant mast. Kaul rode a bosun's chair. He waved gaily and men who handled the halyards on deck hauled shouting in unison to hoist the yard.

"A handsome ship, sir," Naish said.

Mr. Bothwick had just come up the companionway and Naish saw that he wore clean duck trousers, a shirt, a tarpaulin hat and sandals. Since the last of the rats had been cleaned out, Mr. Bothwick preferred to live aboard, coming only rarely ashore.

"Yes, captain," he said stiffly, "she is that."

"You're relieved?" Naish said. "More surprised than relieved, sir."

"Why?"

"To see the work done at all."

Naish grunted. "You and I agree right there. But you're the chief mate, mister, and in charge of her keep homeward-bound."

"With the Indian as second mate, sir?"

Naish took time to answer. There was, he told himself, no insult to Kaul intended in the misuse of the word "Indian." That was a common sailor's term, and as far as the fact could be reckoned the atoll folk had originally come out from India.

But the sense of caste, of place was very strong in Bothwick. Back in Gloucester, his family would be quite happy to know that he'd risen to the rank of chief mate and yet they'd regret that the mate directly subordinate to him had received his only formal ship instruction in some jackass missionary schooner. There was undoubtedly also in Bothwick's mind a trace of the typical New England belief that the best sailors came from her shore, and after all, wealthy as they might be, and skillful traders, great bankers and philosophers and scholars, no man among the Indian, or the Chinese people either, had anything to do with the invention of modern navigation. That was just about the sole creation of Captain Nathaniel Bowditch of Salem.

"Aye," Naish said quietly. "Kaul will sail as second mate. I've already signed him to the articles. But you know of a better man?"

"No, sir. I've doubted, though, if he'll be able to handle the crew."

"You and I will be responsible or such," Naish said. He let his voice sharpen with anger. "And as to standing watches, I'll be on deck with him."

"Then how soon do you calculate we'll sail, sir?"

"Three days from now. The work will be done tomorrow, but I've fixed it with Mata'ora to supply us with fruit and fish. The men must go offshore for the catch, and it has to be smoked and salted. On the last night, too, Mata'ora will give a feast for us. I've promised him another cask of prime oil."

Bothwick hitched at the plaited sennit belt that held up his trousers. He set his feet firmly and looked with a straight stare at Naish. "An anchor watch should be maintained aboard," he said.

"Those youngsters clamber around the ship like monkeys. They might get into the lamp locker or the hold and set fire to her."

"Let be, mister," Naish grinned and smacked Bothwick on the shoulder.

"The day before sailing is time enough for watches. You've worked hard. Slack off and begin to enjoy yourself."

"That's an order, sir?" Bothwick said. Although he still met Naish's glance, he smiled.

"Take it so," Naish said. "Get ashore. Kaul will keep an eye on the rest of the work to be done today."

"You trust him greatly," Bothwick said. "and you seem to have no doubt that some of the lads might skip the way Finnie did."

"Kaul knows his work," Naish said. "Nor do I worry about the lads. Their pride is up. They want to show the local folks they're real sailormen and to prove it they rig the ship. The entire lot of them, too, will go home a good sight better off than when they left. I've increased the cargo lay for all hands."

"I'm glad, sir," Bothwick said earnestly. "They'll need something to console them off the Horn."

Naish's hands closed to fists. He took a step toward Bothwick. Here brought into the open was the fear that could disaffect the crew, keep the ship from ever getting home. Bothwick as chief officer should know better than to express it. If the men remembered the Horn too well, they'd refuse to sail and the ship would stay off the atoll until her bottom planks rotted through and she and her cargo were a total loss.

"Get ashore," Naish said. "That's not the kind of talk for the crew to hear, or you to speak. Don't be a chowder-head!"

The women had been cooking on the beach throughout the day since the flush of false dawn, and the men had built the fires for them in the pits that held the suckling pigs, the chickens and the bonito and mackerel. Piles of plantains were ready.

It was to be the farewell feast for the crew of the Obis.

Red Police Fire At British Group On Berlin Border

BERLIN — Communist police fired six warning shots over the head of British soldiers today in an unsuccessful attempt to prevent a British repair crew from removing a wrecked military police jeep from the East-West border.

Maj. Gen. R. A. Cottrell Hill, Berlin's British commandant, immediately protested the action to Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova, Berlin's Soviet commandant.

No casualties were reported in the incident. But the 25 Communist "peoples police" involved allowed the British to remove the jeep only after the British rushed 50 armed soldiers to the scene on the double and after a Soviet officer intervened.

A British spokesman praised the behavior of the Soviet officer. The incident occurred when a British patrol jeep carrying three military policemen crashed against a tree on the border of the British and Soviet sectors of Berlin.

The jeep came to a halt with its front wheels in West Berlin territory and its back wheels in the Soviet zone, West German police reported.

Police said the Communist border guards did not interfere when rescue teams pulled the injured military policemen from the jeep to get them to a hospital. But they threatened other British soldiers with their carbines when they attempted to remove the jeep.

Illinois Police Chiefs Favor Emergency Traffic Program

SPRINGFIELD — A state-sponsored "emergency" traffic safety program calling for more arrests and higher fines was unanimously approved Thursday by the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police.

The plan was presented to the chiefs at their annual convention by State Traffic Safety Coordinator Robert A. Campbell.

The chiefs appointed a special committee headed by Chief Edwin Whiteside, Wilmette, to make recommendations for enforcement of the program by all cities whose chiefs belong to the association.

The plan calls for:

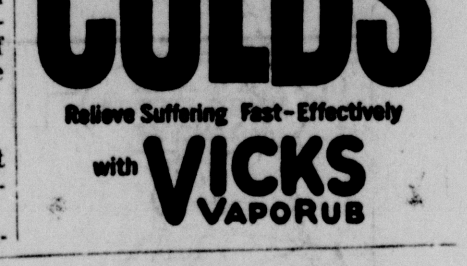

1. A stepped-up enforcement program to bring in more violators.
2. Asking courts to assess higher fines for violations.

3. Using existing drivers license machinery to revoke, cancel and suspend more licenses of consistent violators.

"This firmer stand, in the interest of public safety, will continue until the accident rate shows an appreciable downward trend," the resolution said.

BIGGEST OF THE BIG 3

-and mighty proud of it!

You certainly should look at the '56 Buick SPECIAL!

We've said it before, and we'll say it again:

If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick — and the sales figures make the proof of that stronger and stronger.

Just ask yourself: which cars would normally be in the top 3 of America's best sellers? The well-known smaller cars—naturally.

But which cars are in that Big 3? Two of the well-known smaller cars, and Buick—for over two years running now.

That means Buick prices are well within reach of more and more people—thanks primarily to the budget-tagged Buick SPECIAL, like the one pictured above.

And that's the whole point of the matter.

For this low-priced Buick SPECIAL—so close in cost to the smaller cars—is so much more automobile for the money, it's the stand-out buy of its field.

It's the biggest of the Big 3 in power thrill, in comfort, in size and breadth and luxury and sheer roadability.

It's the biggest of the Big 3 in the solidity and softness of its all-coil-spring ride—in the sweep of its styling—and in the pure thrill of its performance.

For where else but in Buick can you get the nimble getaway, the gas-saving mileage, the electrifying switch-pitch action and the absolute smoothness of the new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

Come in to see and drive the biggest bundle of high-powered beauty and energy ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

It's proud we certainly are to be able to offer so much car for the money—but nothing to how proud you'll be when you boss a new SPECIAL. Can you come in tomorrow?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Carrier Mills Clinches Championship of Midget Conference

The Carrier Mills grade school basketball team clinched the championship of the Midget conference Thursday night by defeating Raleigh 33-23. The game was played at Raleigh.

Carrier Mills is unbeaten in the conference with one game left on the schedule. All other members of the league have lost at least two games.

In the preliminary game last night Carrier Mills also was the winner, 41-28.

Scoring in the main game Carrier Mills: Taborn 11, Shaw 7, Fitts 6, VanHoy 2 and Williams 7; Raleigh: Wesley 1, Grisham 10, Ar-lack 5, Oglesby 3 and Cantrell 4.

Slugging Stan Musial of the Cardinals has signed his sixth straight contract for $80,000, and as ruts go, that's a mighty fine one to fall into.

At the same time, Musial's room mate and sidekick, Al (Red) Schoendienst, signed a $40,000 pact for the third straight year, and that can't exactly be called a bad habit, either.

"I'm very happy with my contract," said Musial, who will take home approximately $30,000 after taxes, while Schoendienst, who stands to net about $20,000, also expressed satisfaction.

Neither had a particularly good season last year, Musial skidding from a 1954 batting mark of .330 to .319, and Schoendienst falling from .315 to .288.

While Musial and Schoendienst were the "big ones" to agree to terms Thursday, several players on other clubs also signed contracts.

Gus Zernial, who batted .254 but slammed 20 home runs last season, became the eighth member of the Kansas City Athletics to sign. No terms were announced.

game winner, signed with the Cincinnati Redlegs as did rookie infielder Bob Durnbaugh.

The Milwaukee Braves announced the signing of pitchers Charlie Gorin, Don Edelman and Carlton Wiley and outfielder Al Spangler.

Former major league infielder Lou Klein was named manager of the Des Moines club in the Western League, a Chicago Cub farm. Klein piloted Lafayette, La., of the Evangeline League last year.

Jersey City Rally

At Jersey City, N. J., Irving Rudd, Brooklyn business manager for the games to be played in New Jersey announced plans have been worked out for a rally there Feb. 1 in honor of the Dodger players.

The Dodgers also announced they will set up special training facilities for some younger players at Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.

And in Chicago, Hall of Famer Rogers Hornsby decided he will retain his job teaching baseball in the city's recreation department. Previously, it was announced he would scout the Chicago sector for the Cleveland Indians.

tempt on O'Keefe's life stemmed from friction among the Brink's gang.

None of the stolen money was recovered.

The solution came as most law enforcement officers were about to give up their long investigation of the crime. The famous holdup occurred Jan. 17, 1950 and under Massachusetts law the statute of limitations was scheduled to expire next Tuesday. Most constitutional authorities believed a three-year extension voted by last year's legislature never would have held up in court.

In a dramatic move Thursday, the FBI announced it had taken six men into custody in commando-type raids in the Boston area.

Six Being Held

Held in total of $670,000 bail for a hearing Jan. 26 were Adolph (Jazz) Maffie, 44, of Quincy, Mass.; Anthony Pino, 45, Boston; Vincent Costa, 41, Pembroke, Mass.; Michael V. Geagan, 47, Milton, Mass.; Joseph McGinnis, 32, Boston; and Henry Baker, 49, Natick, Mass.

Police were ordered to pick up James I. Faherty, 44, a Boston bartender, and Thomas F. Richardson, 47, a Weymouth, Mass., longshoreman.

Already in jail on other charges were O'Keefe and Stanley Gusciora, 33, of Stoughton, Mass. Gusciora is serving time in Pennsylvania.

The dead gang member was Joseph S. Banfield, 41, of Boston.

O'Keefe, who has a criminal record dating back 20 years, has been serving a 27-month sentence at Hampden County Jail, Springfield, Mass.

He was rushed the 75 miles to Boston under heavy police guard Thursday and closeted with Dist. Atty. Garrett Byrne, FBI agents and Boston police for more than six hours.

Byrne said O'Keefe was "very cooperative" and would appear today before the Suffolk (Boston) County grand jury. O'Keefe was cited for contempt in 1953 when he refused to talk before a federal grand jury investigating the Brink's robbery.

Byrne will seek armed robbery indictments which carry life sentences upon conviction, against the gang.

A detailed rundown of the robbery with "plans dating back to 1948" was released by the FBI after the six were arrested.

The 11-member gang made criminal history with the Brink's hold-up. They escaped with $1,219,000 in cash, and $1,557,183 in checks. Despite their painstaking planning and eye for detail, the gunmen overlooked another one million dollars in cash in their haste to depart from the Brink's counting-house in Boston's North End.

Mikan Back in Laker Uniform

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — George Mikan was back in a Minneapolis Laker uniform today after 18 months of retirement "determined" to lift the team back to the top in the National Basketball Assn.

Mikan, general manager of the Lakers since his retirement at the start of the 1954-55 season, said Thursday night he'll be in uniform against Fort Wayne here Saturday.

Since Mikan left them, the Lakers have not been brilliant. They were knocked out of the playoffs last season and this year, except for a late spurt, have been in or near the cellar in the Western Division of the NBA.

Fight Results

By United Press
NEW YORK—Mickey McGrath, 162 1-2, Greenwich, Conn., out-punited Phil Rizzo, 158 1-4, Brooklyn, N. Y. (8).

FLINT, Mich.—Don Jasper, Duluth, Minn., outpointed Wilbur Dille, Milwaukee, Wis. (10); Yama Bahama, Bahamas, stopped Lef-fie Walker, Saginaw, Mich. (7).

BOSTON—Ray Phillips, 189, Carmel, Me., stopped Jimmy Walls, 190 1/2, Englewood, N. J. (5).

Notre Dame, Duke Sign Grid Pacts

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Duke University and Notre Dame have signed contracts to meet in football in 1958 and 1960. The first game will be played at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18, 1958 and the second here on a date to be decided later, but during the 1960 season. It will mark the first football action between the two schools.

Illinois Faces Indiana, Purdue This Week End

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois' basketball team, current leader in the Big Ten race with a 2-0 record, plays at Indiana and Purdue this week end in what could be one of the most important road trips of the conference season. A double victory definitely would put Coach Harry Combes' Illini in the driver's seat as Western Conference teams head into the between-semester schedule break.

A double victory can be considered no more than a remote possibility, however, when ability of the host teams is considered. Both Indiana and Purdue suffered first conference losses Monday night while Illinois was walloping Wisconsin, 96-77, but both were defeated by top-rated teams in strange surroundings. The Hoosiers lost to Minnesota, 77-71, at Minneapolis, and Purdue was licked, 74-67, at Michigan.

The Illini will be taking to the road for the first time since Dec. 13, when they defeated Notre Dame, 103-93, at South Bend. In the only other trip of the yet-young season, Illinois was beaten 74-73 at Missouri—only loss of the year for the nation's eighth-ranked quintet.

Combes was pleased with his squad's impressive win over Wisconsin—considered by many as Illinois' finest game of the season. He declared that it was the finest team effort of the year, and by far the most consistent game played by the 1956 entry.

Although the Illini "Bench" continued to impress, Combes made no changes in the regular lineup as he began preparations for the Indiana and Purdue games. He did not rule out the possibility of a last minute switch however, and said that performances in practice this week will determine the starting five.

Best chance for a new face apparently is at forward, where reserves have been most impressive. Junior Harv Schmidt and sophomore Don Ohl currently hold down number one ranking and have performed well. Still such proven competitors as Bruce Brothers, Hiles Stout, and Bill Altenberger are a constant challenge.

Guards Paul Judson and Bill Ridley constitute one of the finest scoring combinations in the conference, if not in the nation, and are unlikely to be replaced. George BonSalle appears set at center, and probably will see majority of action at that spot since understudy Ted Caiazza apparently has been lost for the season with a "trick" knee.

Following the Purdue game, the Illini will take time out for semester examinations. They resume action Jan. 28 against DePaul at Chicago Stadium, then face Minnesota at Minneapolis Jan. 30. Next home game is Feb. 6 against Indiana, when Combes hopes the squad will receive a lift through addition of Phil Judson and Tom Rank, currently ineligible.

Freshmen Drop 74-48 Game at W. Frankfort; Varsity Tilt Here Tonight

The Harrisburg high school's freshman basketball team was trounced, 74-48, at West Frankfort last night.

The Frankfort frosh led 15-6 at the quarter, 29-11 at the half and 51-25 at the end of the third quarter.

The Harrisburg scorers: Rauh 10, Woolcott 10, Pickford 8, Maynard 6, Kane 5, Pavelonis 2, Biggs 3, Drew 2 and Thompson 2.

Next frosh contests will be here Monday starting at 6:30, when two games will be played against El-dorado.

Tonight the West Frankfort varsity team comes to Davenport gym for a South Seven contest with the Bull Dogs.

SOPH SHOWS WAY Bethlehem, Pa.—(NEA)—Sophomore quarterback Dan Nolan led the Lehigh football squad in ground gained.

THE MUDDY GRADE SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAM, member of the Midget conference. Muddy has a record of four victories and the same number of losses in varsity Midget competition and the second team has rolled to six wins while losing only two games. Galatia plays at Muddy today and Muddy's conference season closes Jan. 20 at Dorrisville. Back row, left to right: Ben Brinkley, principal and coach; Ronnie Podorski, Ronnie Penrod, Jim Beasley, Harold Murphy, Dennis Mahaffey and Jim Dardeen, official scorers; kneeling, left to right: Roy Carnegie, David Disney, George Reeder, Nicky Hicks, Roger Shires and Buddy Hubbard, team manager.

Warriors Extend Pro Cage Lead

By United Press
The Philadelphia Warriors' latest winning streak rose to five games today as the runaway National Basketball Assn. leaders increased their first-place margin in the Eastern Division to five full games.

The Quaker City hot-shots led all the way Thursday night in scoring a 123-94 triumph over the Rochester Royals at Philadelphia. In the only other league action, the Syracuse Chiefs snapped a four game losing streak by beating St. Louis, 93-78, in a battle of tail-enders.

Rochester stayed in contention for 16 minutes, when Philadelphia held only a 37-36 margin. But then the Warriors ripped off 11 straight points to take charge and the Royals never came closer than six points again. Neil Johnston scored 23 points and Paul Arizin had 20 for the Warriors and Ed Fleming

Sam Langford, Ex-Boxer, Dies Blind, Penniless

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sam Langford, conqueror of world champions but never one himself, will be buried here Saturday at private ceremonies.

The Boston "Tar Baby" died Thursday in a nursing home here, blind and penniless.

Langford, a native of Weymouth, N. S., traveled the world from 1902 to 1923 pursuing the business he knew best—boxing.

He fought a dozen champions in all classes but during his long years in the ring failed to win a title. He began his fistic career at the age of 17 by whipping lightweight champion Joe Gans in a non-title bout in Boston.

Four years later, weighing only 145 pounds, he lost a close decision to Jack Johnson, who later shunned him when he won the heavyweight crown. Langford also fought such greats as Harry Wills and Steamboat Fred Fulton. In 1906 he went into the ring against Jack Blackburn, who later managed Joe Louis.

The "Tar Baby" fought an estimated 642 bouts during his time in the ring.

The honors that had been denied him so long during his active days came to him about three months from his death when his name was enshrined in boxing's Hall of Fame.

Junior High 8th Grade Teams Loses, 7th Graders Win

A strong Mt. Vernon Junior high school basketball team defeated the Harrisburg eighth grade squad Thursday night, 75-48.

In the seventh grade game Harrisburg won a thriller, 29-27. The games were played in the local gym.

Mt. Vernon was paced by Carra-dine, center, described by Harrisburg Coach Louie Beltz as the "finest Junior high school player I have ever seen."

In the seventh grade game the score was tied 6-6 at the quarter and 11-11 at half time. Harrisburg led 23-14 after three quarters and stayed off a last frame rally to win 29-27.

Mt. Vernon led all the way in the eighth grade game, 21-10, 41-20, 58-33 and the final count 75-48.

Harrisburg players in the 7th grade game—Utter, Karns, Robertson, Shelton, Dunning, Meler, Stille, Potter, Hopkins, Shew-make and Wirth. Seeing action in the eighth grade game for Harrisburg—Henshaw, Aldridge, Hancock, Kane, Stone, Neeley, Feazel, Donovan and Wise.

Harrisburg travels to Metropolis next Tuesday and the following Thursday Marion will be here.

Dorrisville Defeats Broughton, 31-28

Dorrisville won a Midget conference game at Broughton Thursday afternoon 31-28.

After trailing 10-7 at the quarter, Dorrisville led 18-15 at half-time. After three quarters the score was tied 21-21. Then Dorrisville picked up 10 points to Broughton's 7 in the last frame for the 31-28 win.

Dorrisville players: Cline, Lyon, York, Carnett, Price and Wilson; Broughton: Barker, Parker, M. Cantrell, Price, J. Cantrell, Owen and Allen.

Special Room Designed for Stratton
On Display at Home Furnishings Show

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois has a special room set aside for him that he will never use.

The room was designed for him and named in his honor as one of the displays at the International Home Furnishings Winter Market in progress here.

Stratton, who lives in the governor's mansion at Springfield, has never seen the room at the Merchandise Mart.

The only specifications he gave for its decoration were that the room contain a bust of Abraham Lincoln and a place for the bulky books of Illinois statutes.

A Four-Poster Bed
Everett Brown, 42-year-old San Francisco designer, fulfilled the governor's request, and went on to create a room which he hopes is befitting a governor.

For the state's chief executive to sleep in, an old four-poster bed was chosen. It is finished in antique white and is covered with an olive green silk bedspread.

The walls give a muted brown tone to the room. They are of raw silk. The floor is composed of leather tile.

In one corner of the room a high apricot-colored wingback chair and a black leather lounge chair form a small intimate conversational group.

Touches of Early Illinois
The bust of Lincoln is placed on a bureau built in the early days of Illinois history.

The red-bound volumes of the Illinois statutes are there on a high, old-fashioned secretary desk. One of them is open, ready for the governor to study Chapter 24 on cities and villages.

Other touches of early Illinois life include an old-fashioned silver candlestick—with a candle by the bed and a quill pen ready for use on the desk.

A good attendance was reported at Sunday school Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Haney visited with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Adams Sunday.

Kressa Church made a business trip to Eldorado Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hines of Eldorado visited Gladys Godbey Sunday evening. Other Sunday afternoon callers were LaVerne Hathaway, Mary Lee Adams and Pearl Haney.

Washington was the 42nd state to be admitted to the Union.

Proving That People
Are Still Eating Eggs

KINGSTON, R. I. (AP)—What do you look for in an egg? If you look for freshness and quality, you're in the majority—at least the majority of persons polled recently by W. H. Wallace and A. L. Owens of the state Agricultural Experiment Station.

They reported their findings in a station publication. About 40 per cent, they found, look for "convenience" and "satisfaction."

Only 21 per cent of the home-makers reported "shopping around" or purchasing eggs from a special source to get what they believed was higher quality.

The largest group of consumers, 38 per cent, bought eggs in two-dozen lots, while 34 per cent bought in one-dozen lots. The rest ranged from half-dozen to three dozen per-time purchasers.

MAKE THIS HOME RECIPE
TO TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

It's simple how quickly you may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy — it contains nothing harmful and has a mild laxative effect. Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid RENNEL Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoons twice a day. RENNEL is also available in the 3 ounce regular economy size. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves: if reducible pounds and inches of fat don't seem to disappear from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for a refund. You don't have to starve — eat sensibly per instructions. Ask for free booklet. Follow this easy way endorsed by your Illinois neighbors who have gotten slim with this recipe. Note how quickly bloated disappears — how much better you feel — more alive, youthful appearing and active. See your druggist today for RENNEL.
